The depth of connexion: the means of grace

It's inborn in our humanity—the need to connect with people, places, and things. We have the desire to be more than we are as human beings. This can be a good thing or bad, depending on your perspective.

Bishop Al Wesley Goodwin said, “We are not human beings having a supernatural experience. We are supernatural beings having a human experience.”

Let that sink in for a moment. The divine God, as we understand God created us for connection. However, it was not for connection one to another but to God. We are created in the strange vastness of the imago Dei. We were created and placed perfectly in this world as divine image bearers of God. That means that with all our shortcomings and imperfections, we bear God's image. Look in the mirror: “What do you see?” “Do you notice your beauty, or do you notice your imperfections?” Mirrors reflect our physical presence but cannot reflect our intellect or spiritual essence. They give us an incomplete picture of the ‘whole’ of ourselves. Only God can see the full picture of who we are and our potential in this world.

One of the disciples that gets the worst wrap in scripture is Thomas. We call him doubting Thomas, and we think that he has a weak faith because of his reluctance to believe the resurrection of Jesus has occurred. I don't believe Thomas was weak in his faith, but he needed empirical evidence. After all, don't we need empirical evidence at the time to believe the unbelievable? In examining Thomas' character, we need to take a look at John 11.

“Then Jesus told them plainly, “Lazarus has died,<sup>15</sup> and for your sake, I am glad that I was not there, so that you may believe. But let us go to him.”<sup>16</sup> So Thomas, called the Twin, said to his fellow disciples, “Let us also go, that we may die with him.” John 11:14-16

Thomas was a zealot for the Lord. He would have been the first to take Jesus's place on the cross if he could have. I love Thomas, and his quote, “Let us also go, that we may die with him,” will be my epitaph on my gravestone. Thomas had not had the experience that the other disciples did of seeing Jesus in the flesh appearing to them in a locked room. He hadn't had the benefit of the Holy Spirit being breathed upon him. Thomas was grieving, and rightfully so—he had just seen Jesus tried, beaten, and executed. To say the least, Thomas had post-traumatic stress syndrome. Remember, I'm not a doctor, just an avid observer of biblical history.

During the Passover feast, Jesus gave the disciples bread which he referred to as his body, and wine, which he referred to as his blood. In this meal, Jesus gave of himself to his disciples for the journey ahead. The journey would be hard and painful and end in Jesus's death. If that were the end of the story, we wouldn't be here to tell it. Jesus's death was the beginning of God tearing open the heavens and restoring humanity in connexion to God and one another. Three days later, the event that would change the universe happened.

The stone was rolled away, the grave clothes were folded, and the first witnesses were women who carried the message to the disciples who dismissed them as ‘mad.’

Death is the culmination of faith’s perfection in Jesus Christ.

Death then becomes the beginning of new life in Jesus Christ. In the words of C.S. Lewis, “Death works backward.” Life begets life, and the story continues with us as participants in a new story of faith.

Coming to the Lord’s communion table to receive the body and blood of Christ binds us in faith to billions who have gone before us singing the great mystery of faith:

“Holy, holy, holy Lord, God of power and might,
heaven and earth are full of your glory.
Hosanna is the highest.
Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.
Hosanna in the highest.”

This great mystery of faith is complete with the breaking of bread and the sharing of the cup of salvation. It is what John Wesley referred to as the means of grace. Grace is this divine means of help or strength given through the bounteous mercy and love of Jesus Christ. It is a free unmerited gift that is available to all persons at all times. It is what God does at that moment when we approach the table and humble ourselves. It is one of the messiest of sacraments because as we meet Christ in this meal, we acknowledge:

- 1.) Our mortality and sin
- 2.) Our need for Jesus
- 3.) Our need to be in ministry to all the world.

Holy Communion is a call to respond to the grace of God given in Christ. It is an opportunity for us to experience God in a tangible way that cannot be duplicated by human hands.

For the past couple of years, I have been meeting with two of my parishioners in my office every Wednesday morning for Holy Communion and prayer. My coffee table becomes a makeshift altar. The bread is still warm from coming out of Harold’s oven, and Howard reminds me, “I am doing pretty good for an old guy.” We laugh, talk, solve the world’s problems and then pray. We ask God’s blessing in this time and space and share in the words of the institution. We break bread together and depart in the grace of God. I have been doing this every Wednesday for the past five years. The impact that it has had on the three of us cannot be explained.

All of us have changed spiritually, and we have become closer than I ever thought possible. It is the means of grace and thanksgiving that God has given at that moment that make all the difference.

Bishop Al Wesley Goodwin said, “We are not human beings having a supernatural experience. We are supernatural beings having a human experience.” That human experience of bread and cup is just what the church needs on a regular basis to stay in connexion with Jesus, our Lord, and Savior.

In Christ,

SCRIPTURE OF THE MONTH - MAY - "LOOKING AHEAD"

"Let us run with perseverance the race that is set before us, looking to Jesus the pioneer and perfecter of our faith." - Hebrews 12:1-2

MAY

April showers hopefully will bring us May Flowers! I am excited for this month because my mom and I have planned a weekend trip to go visit family friends and my Nana. A lot of my family has moved from PA to North Carolina, but we still have a few people living in Pennsylvania so we are planning a little weekend away together! It will be amazing to see my Nana again, she's in her 80's and I haven't seen her in person since before the pandemic. My mom is in the transition period of getting ready to retire, so it's going to be so great spending more time with her and having her involved in more things since she has the free time now! I hope you all have a wonderful month and a fantastic Memorial Weekend!

Thank you for supporting Care Net of Central New York, the premier "go to place" for women facing unplanned or unsupported pregnancies.

Here is how your support helped the local community over the last 12 months:

- We provided 800 free pregnancy tests and 437 free ultrasound scans to confirm a viable pregnancy.
- We helped parents struggling with parenting issues and soon-to-be parents prepare for the greatest adventure of their life and provided over 4,500 parenting and life-skill classes.
- We helped women and men who lost children to abortion, miscarriage, and still-birth, we provided over 115 support sessions to help ease their burden and restore the hope that was lost.
- And to encourage abstinence, over 3,000 students watched our sexual risk-avoidance videos, or had a Care Net presentation in their school.

Thanks again for supporting our mission, you are a vital part of this ministry because with every baby bottle filled, we are better positioned and equipped to help women and families during their time of crisis.

Thank you and God Bless, Paul Marshall (President and Executive Director)

Strawberry Jell-O Pretzel Salad

"Strawberry Pretzel Salad is more dessert than salad, it's sweet, salty, made with Jell-O, and topped with cool whip. It's easy to make ahead of any event and is an absolute winner at potlucks and parties!"

<https://www.culinaryhill.com/strawberry-pretzel-salad/>

Recipe by: Meggan Hill

INGREDIENTS

For the Pretzels:

- 2 cups crushed pretzels (about 8 ounces)
- 3/4 cup butter melted (1 1/2 sticks)
- 3 tablespoons granulated sugar

For the Filling:

- 8 ounces cream cheese softened
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 2 cups whipped topping thawed (from one 8-ounce container)

For the Topping:

- 2 (3 ounce) packages strawberry gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 32 ounces frozen sweetened strawberries thawed
- Whipped topping for garnish, optional
- Pretzels uncrushed, for garnish, optional

DIRECTIONS

1. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.
2. In a medium bowl, add crushed pretzels, butter and sugar. Toss well to combine.
3. Meanwhile, in a medium bowl, beat cream cheese and sugar until smooth. Stir in whipped topping until combined.
4. Spread over pretzel crust and refrigerate until chilled (at least 30 minutes).
5. In a large bowl, dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in strawberries and chill until partially set. Carefully spoon over filling. Chill until firm, 4 to 6 hours.
6. Garnish with additional whipped topping and pretzels if desired.

Recipe tips and variations:

- Protect the pretzels: Make sure you spread the cream cheese layer all the way to the edges of the baking dish. This will prevent the Jell-O from reaching the pretzels and making them soggy. Also, left out at room temperature, the pretzels will start to soften. But they will stay crunchy in the refrigerator, so serve this at the last minute.
- Chill: Chill between every step, and try not to rush. Also, allow the Jell-o to cool down to room temperature before pouring on the strawberries so the warmth doesn't soak in.
- Make ahead: Strawberry Pretzel Salad is best when made about half a day in advance. It will keep for up to three days in the refrigerator.
- Raspberry: Substitute frozen raspberries and raspberry Jell-O (or mix and match) for a new berry flavor.
- Pineapple juice: Some families swear by making the gelatin layer with hot pineapple juice. Use only 1 cup hot pineapple juice with the frozen berries, or it might not set correctly!
- Pecans: Some cooks love adding a handful or two of chopped pecans to the crushed pretzels.

Total Time: 3 hrs. Servings: 12 servings
